

Developing Theoretically Driven and Evidence Based Educational Policies: Needs and Challenges

Facilitators: Charalambos Y. Charalambous & Demetris Demetriou

PROMQE conference workshop

May 19, 2017

Introductions

- In a few words:
  - Say who you are
  - Briefly mention any/the most significant experiences you might have had in running educational projects
  - Briefly mention any experience/the most significant experiences you might have had in proposing educational policies and/or working toward promoting such policies

Activity 1: Developing Theory-Driven and Evidence-Based (TDEB) Educational Policies

- Working in small groups, identify reasons that necessitate developing theory-driven and evidence-based educational policies

Activity 2: Sharing Experiences from Developing TDEB Policies

- Working in small groups, discuss any attempts that have been undertaken in your country to develop TDEB educational policies:
    - Describe the context in which such initiatives were undertaken
    - Describe and elaborate upon any obstacles/challenges encountered along the way
      - Obstacles/challenges related to the context in which such attempts were undertaken
      - Obstacles/challenges related to characteristics associated with educational research
      - Obstacles/challenges related to the way educational findings were communicated to policymakers
      - Other obstacles/challenges
-

Activity 3: Sharing Experiences from Developing TDEB Policies

- Working in small groups, discuss any attempts that have been undertaken in your country to develop TDEB educational policies:
- Propose any measures undertaken to overcome the challenges and obstacles faced:
  - In which directions have these measures been directed?
  - Toward which stakeholders have these measures been geared?
  - How successful have these measures been? Why?
  - Is there something that you would do differently? Why?

Activity 4: Developing a List for Developing and Successfully Enacting TDEB Policies

- Working in different groups, try to generate a list of five steps you would take to develop and successfully enact TDEB policies

Thank you very much for your participation!

The background features a light green gradient at the top, transitioning into a series of thin, parallel, wavy green lines that curve across the middle. Below these lines is a solid orange area containing faint, stylized patterns of leaves and circular motifs.